

THIS BEAVER TOO EAGER and as a result is now a pelt. Trapping beaver was a common thing in Illinois a hundred years ago but there are very few of the animals left in the state now and trapping them is a rarity, especially in this region. The specimen shown here weighed 42 pounds, according to the young trapper who bagged him. The young man is Lawrence Bartar, 16, a junior at Carl Sandburg high school. He lives on 167th st. and U.S. 45. He runs a trap line in season and catches a variety of fur bearing animals but this is the first time he got a beaver. In his trips about the countryside he ascertained there were beavers in the big drainage ditch coming out of Alpine and set some traps. Monday he was rewarded with his catch. There is no great demand for beaver as a fur at this time so the price of pelts is down, Lawrence said. There is no fur trading post in the neighborhood so the current price of beaver pelts was not immediately available.

New Lenox Annexation

Warrens Plan 760-Home Program

Annexation of 234 acres adjoining New Lenox on the west has been approved by the village board, subject to compliance with all legal requirements.

Title to the property is vested in Patrick Warren who with his son, John, plans to convert it into a housing development.

Surveys have been completed and the proposed subdivision laid out into 760 lots. The subdivision plot, of course, will be revised by the village planning commission.

Some of the lots are substantially less than the 10,000 square feet required by village ordinance but board members were willing to amend this provision in this instance because plans for the subdivision call for a complete sewer system, including treatment plant. The larger lot sizes are prescribed when septic tanks are used, to allow for a proper drain field. With sewers smaller lot sizes are acceptable, it was said.

John Warren said that details concerning the development are not complete but he and his father hope to get building started this spring.

The Warrens gave 80 acres to St. Jude parish and the church and school are located there. This church property is outside the village, and village officials hope for its inclusion in the annexation of the Warren farm.

Church property is exempt from taxation but the subdivision, when improved, would add considerable to the assessed valuation of the village.

Plans for the development, John Warren said, call for a shopping center.

Grade School Band

N. Lenox Youngsters Win Honors

Milton Mojziz, band director for the New Lenox grade school band was proud of his band members, last Saturday, when they went to the district contest at Shebbona, and brought home many honors.

Out of 37 entries in the solo and ensemble contest, 33 were first winners and the other four, received seconds.

Superintendent John Oster of New Lenox grade schools, said: "This was the outstanding accomplishment for the band in any year of competition and we know it was due very much to the great effort and display of ability by Mr. Mojziz."

Many band parents commented on the fine work of Mr.

Mojziz, and the many extra hours of work he put in with the girls and boys.

Frankfort, Mokena Study Land Use Plans

Preliminary land use plans for Frankfort and Mokena prepared by Educational and Technical Consultants, Inc., of Evanston, have been presented to the planning commissions and village boards of both communities.

Carl Muhlenbruch and Robert Wheeler, of the ETC staff, met with the Mokena group last Saturday morning and conferred with the Frankfort contingent in the afternoon.

They advised both communities to use the utmost care in approving subdivisions.

Housing developments where the homes sell for from $9,000 to $15,000 cost communities more in services than they ever get in taxes, they pointed out.

They said the only financial salvation for communities like Frankfort and Mokena was to attract light industry. The proper proportion of industry in a community was about 20 per cent, Muhlenbruch said.

The planners also brought out that industrial sites were becoming worth substantially more than property for residential purposes.

Mokena's only industrial area, the map shows, extends along both sides of the Rock Island east of the village to U. S. 45. Frankfort, lying between the Michigan Central and the E&E railroads has a much larger area than Mokena that can be put to industrial use.

Adopting zoning ordinances that set up industrial and commercial areas and ban encroachment by housing development attract industry and business, the planners said.

Industry in particular is reluctant to locate a plant where encroaching residential area eventually take over and industry is compelled to move, they said. Industry doesn't want to be bothered with necessity of playing babysitter to a neighborhood.

At the Frankfort session the village board, plan group, zoning board, school board and village legal department were represented. A similar contingent met with the consultants at Mokena.

The two villages, like most communities, the consultants pointed out, are in need of parking facilities. Communities without parking space usually wind up without any business as shoppers go to places where they can park. Loss of business by stores is also a loss to municipal governments as their sales tax revenue is thus reduced.

Mokena and Frankfort each receive between $8,000 and $10,000 a year from sales tax.

No provision for parking also means, it was pointed out, that business firms seeking new locations, will shun a community so lacking. That is why Mr. Muhlenbruch said, city councils, Chambers of Commerce and civic groups were so eager to provide parking places.

Industry that would be located at Frankfort or Mokena, the planners said, would not be objectionable as to smoke, noise, order or appearance yet they would be of great assistance in easing the tax load.

Industry builds up assessed valuation, it was noted, yet puts no strain on a community's services. On the other hand large housing developments do place a strain on schools and communities.

Muhlenbruch complimented Frankfort on its zoning ordinance. He recommended that any new developments in the area be carefully controlled to prevent imposition of a burden on the present populace.

The average householder, it was brought out, doesn't pay enough in school taxes for example to pay the cost of putting a child thru grade school until years after the same child has been graduated from high school.

Statistics show that it costs around $300 a year for a child in grade school while the cost in high schools will range from $450 to $600.

The consultants emphasized that any low cost housing development would add to the woes of a community, especially the school districts, and urged that standards be set up to protect the majority from problems which could stem from a few or an individual source.

When final studies are completed and a land use plan adopted recommendations will be made to strengthen village codes and ordinances for the future benefit of the communities. Before final plans are approved there will be meetings at which various segments of the public will be invited to make suggestions.

It was expected that final plans would be ready in about six weeks.

New Firehouse for Orland Park

2 Small Boys Drown in Ditch At C. C. Hills

Two small boys, brothers, were drowned in an excavation at Country Club Hills Tuesday afternoon.

The hole, about 30 feet long and ten feet deep and containing about three feet of water, has been described by some of the residents of the area as a "baby trap," and say there are other unguarded excavations in the area.

The victims of Tuesday's tragedy were Stephen Lewandowski, 7, and his 6-year old brother Michael. They resided at 18770 John st. The boys had

Estimate Project at $18,000; Firemen to Solicit Public Aid

A new firehouse for Orland Park.

That is the goal of members of the volunteer department that serves the area and a campaign to raise funds for the project is now being set up.

The Orland Park village board has given its sanction to the program and has authorized the firemen to solicit funds for an engine house and equipment.

The committee in charge estimates the cost of the building, complete in all details, will run to about $18,000. Firemen figure there are approximately 900 families in the area served by the department. If each family will contribute $20, the committee pointed out, the complete sum will be realized. Persons who would prefer to pay their donations in installments may do so, say half now and the balance next year.

Firemen say that it will cost about $13,000 to erect foundations and walls and roof the building. They expect to do some of the plumbing and electrical work themselves.

Plans call for an L-shape building with the short part of the L forming a wing to house an office, sanitary facilities, a meeting room and storage space. This wing would be 24 feet wide and 46 feet deep. The long part of the L—running parallel to Beacon street, would be 46 ft. long and 32 ft. deep and provide three large doors for taking equipment in and out.

Firemen are preparing a pamphlet setting up their needs and outlining the plan and when those are completed and the members are all supplied with receipt forms, they will begin their solicitation.

Firemen say that the public has been generous in the past in contributing to the purchase of equipment and maintaining the apparatus and are confident the response to the building fund will bring success to the program.

Present quarters are too small and the building itself is in bad condition.

Firement pointed out to the council that the design of the engine house was such that another wing could be added later, if the village saw fit, that would serve as a municipal building.

W. L. Knippel, 87, Veteran Law Officer, Dies

William L. Knippel, 87, well known in this area because of his activities in the local and political fields, died Sunday night, March 8, in his home, route 45, at Frankfort. He had enjoyed watching television as usual before retiring and shortly thereafter suffered a paralytic stroke and passed away in a short time.

Mr. Knippel was active for many years in the civic life of his community, having served the village of Frankfort 22 years as policeman; 57 years as deputy sheriff, which office he held until last fall when he resigned and at the time of death he was constable for Frankfort township, holding that office since 1902; he was associated with his son in the trucking business for 38 years, retiring from it four years ago. He also farmed for 13 years.

He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America, camp 3114 and of St. Peter's United Church of Christ at Frankfort.

Mr. Knippel was born in Germany Feb. 8, 1872 and came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Knippel, to this (Continued to page 2)

Present $84,000 Bond Issue For Addition to Mokena School

Voters in the Mokena grade school district will be asked to approve an $84,000 building bond issue at the regular election April 11.

A steadily growing enrollment has made it necessary to build an addition to Willow Crest school west of Wolf road.

The addition would have a six-room capacity. Four of the rooms would be finished for immediate use for separate classes. The other two would be combined into a multipurpose room to be converted into class space when needed.

The system now has two schools with a total of 12 rooms, six at Willow Crest and six at the Carpenter Street school. School officials estimate that at least 15 rooms will be needed by next fall.

Six of the grades will require two rooms each, two will need one room each and another room is needed for musical activities, including those of the band and choir.

Assuming the bonds are approved and contracts awarded this spring the addition could not be completed in time for the opening of school in September, it was said, so the board will put the gymnasium and stage to work again as classrooms at the Carpenter Street building. This has been done before and is not satisfactory, school officials say, but that is the only thing that can be done.

The present enrollment is 347 and by next fall it is expected to increase substantially. (Continued to page 8)

GIVES $300 TO MOKENA FIREHOUSE BUILDING FUND—Mrs. Kenneth Sherwood, representing the now disbanded Mokena Village Players, an amateur theatrical group, turned over a check for $300 to Walter Muehler, chairman of the finance committee of the Mokena Volunteer fire department, to be turned in to the organization's building fund. Looking on is Eric Book, president of the department. The Mokena Players disbanded several months ago and voted to donate the $300 remaining in the treasury to the firehouse building fund. Thru the years the Players existed they donated hundreds of dollars to various community projects. Since the group dissolved most of the members have become affiliated with the Lincoln-Way Players. Foundations for the new firehouse are in and work is progressing so more money is needed. Firemen are asking the public to donate the necessary funds. (Marvin Smith photo)

Hospital Fund Drive

Name Team Captains At New Lenox, Mokena

St. Jude's parish, New Lenox, and St. Mary's parish, Mokena, are in the organizational stage of preparing for the fund campaign for the new St. Joseph hospital. Team captains at St. Jude who offered their services met Monday, Mar. 9 to select their team members. The total organization numbers 150 men who will work for this important community project. Ted Bogdan is general chairman of the St. Jude group of workers. Soliciting is to begin April 12. Victory Sunday is set for May

3rd. According to estimates by the experts the bed capacity for Joliet area should be 700. After Silver Cross and the new St. Joseph hospitals are completed they will have a little over 600 beds. But the area will then have two modern hospitals. At present the hallways must often serve as bedrooms in both hospitals and each day patients are turned away and put on the waiting list.

"Unless we build now to replace the 77 year old St.

Joseph hospital," Mr. Bogden said, "the time will come when one of our own family or loved ones will be in need of a hospital and there will be none available. Almost all of us have at one time or another used the services of a hospital. Some of us have had our lives saved in a hospital or will have our lives saved if there is a modern institution available in our emergency. Therefore the entire community is getting behind the drive for funds."

At a recent organizational dinner for the fund campaign, Paul Kempe, administrator of Silver Cross hospital and Geo. Lloyd, board member at the same hospital addressed the group and not only gave their encouragement but pledged their personal support.

Parents Learn Of Handy Camp For Handicapped
The word "Handy Camp" holds a fascinating meaning for those who attended the February meeting of the Council for Handicapped Children at Blackhawk school in Park Forest. The background and purpose of this summer day-camp for physically and mentally handicapped children of the South Suburban area was explained in detail by members of the panel. They were Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Alfred Fleishman, Mrs. Bernard Sheffman, and Arnold Levin as moderator.

Executive director of the South Suburban Family Counseling Service, Levin, helped the panel and audience share the feeling that a child is a child first and handicapped second.

The heart warming mood was captured completely as humorous camp stories were revealed, and how the problems encountered for establishing this camp were successfully met. The women from the Jewish council, sponsors of the camp, showed that through the cooperation of the Community Chest and many local service and merchant's organizations, Handy Camp has become an expression of Park Forest's desire to help these children achieve a sense of accomplishment and happiness.

Birth and Life of Our Atmosphere

BY ROBERT MANN
(Conservation Editor,
Cook Co. Forest Presv.)

In a former piece we described the atmosphere that surrounds the earth, held there by the pull of gravity, including the canopy of air immediately above us. That canopy is responsible for our weather and climates, shields us from the killing rays of the sun, and furnishes substances necessary for all life: oxygen, nitrogen, carbon dioxide, and water vapor.

Astronomers believe that none of the other planets—excepting Mars, perhaps—has an atmosphere anything like ours. The principal elements, free nitrogen (78 percent) and free oxygen (21 percent), apparently are rare in the universe. On the other hand, the earth's atmosphere contains only traces of free hydrogen and helium—the two lightest gases—whereas they are by far the most common elements elsewhere in the universe.

Originally, those two gases must have been present here in vast quantities. What happened, and what was the origin of our atmosphere? The answer, according to modern theory, is that the earth has had other atmospheres which escaped; and that the latest one was slowly accumulated during eons of time.

Most scientists believe that this planet condensed from a whorl of star dust and gases into a flaming ball where the heaviest elements gravitated inward and lighter ones rose to the surface. Fiery spouts of gases, especially hydrogen and helium, jetted away into space. As the earth lost that heat, its surface gradually cooled and became a fluid crust with hardening islands of granite and basalt which eventually formed continents. Torrents of flaming lava erupted thru innumerable weak spots in the crust, and also terrific jets of gases more complex and heavier than hydrogen and helium: water vapor (as steam), carbon dioxide, and probably other compounds such as ammonia and methane.

Those gases formed enormous hot clouds that grew and grew until they were many miles high, shutting out sunlight and shrouding the earth in perpetual darkness for perhaps millions of years. From their upper reaches into cold atmosphere, wave after wave of rains fell but boiled and became rising steam before they reached the earth's hot crust.

Thus, each rainfall supported the earth of some of its heat energy and carried that upward into the clouds where it radiated into outer space. Other losses of heat and energy resulted from the awful lightning that must have been continual, and from the tremendous jets of fiery gases. The earth cooled until at last there came a time when the rains fell and did not boil away. Meanwhile the crust had heaved and wrinkled. When the clouds thinned and those deluges ended, the sun shone upon glittering seas collected in the depths.

Life apparently began, somehow, in shallow waters warmed by sunshine. Green plants developed until some emerged and grew along the beaches. Later, others invaded higher ground. Primitive animals developed in the seas and their descendants crept out to live on land. Green plants in day time, take in carbon dioxide and give off oxygen. At night the process is reversed. Animals consume oxygen and exhale carbon dioxide. As dead plants and animals decay, carbon dioxide is released into the air and nitrogen into the soil. However, because plants give off far more oxygen than they consume and take in far more carbon dioxide than they give off, the supply of oxygen in the air increased and that of carbon dioxide gradually dwindled.

The dust, smoke, fumes and nuclear explosions produced by modern civilization threaten to disrupt that vital cycle of use and renewal.

Named Finalist In Natl. Merit Scholarship

Robert DeVoursney has been notified that he is among the finalists in the national merit scholarship program. The Carl Sandburg high school senior joints the 10,000 finalists that have been chosen from a field of nearly half-a-million that entered competition last April.

Some 700 of the finalists will be named merit scholars this spring. They, and the colleges they have chosen, will share $3.5 million in funds offered by over 80 different organizations and individuals. The merit scholars will be named on about May 1.

By reaching the finals competition, DeVoursney received a certificate of merit, attesting to his high academic promise. Being in the finalist group ranks him in the top six-tenths of the upper one per cent of the seniors in each state receiving the awards.

NIKE Sites Begin Six-Month Reservist-Active Army Training

Two NIKE-AJAX guided missile sites in the Chicago-Gary air defense area began a six-month reservist-active Army training test Tuesday, Feb. 24.

The test will measure the feasibility of using reservists in a "Minute Man" capacity at Nike sites. It will determine if on-site training of men with prior missile knowledge is feasible in the defense of a large industrial and population complex.

Colonel Avery W. Masters, the commanding officer of the 22d Artillery Group (Air Defense), Orland Park, is test director. He will work jointly with reservists and representatives of the Active Army.

The test is an Army project. If successful, the Chicago-Gary test may be expanded to a nationwide scope. This will mean that part of the growing reservoir of reservists would "back up" active Army personnel in manning, maintaining and operating Nike sites.

At present there are no Reserve Missile units. Specially designed for the unique test are two Air Defense Detachments of reservists. They are composed of reservists from XI US Army Corps (reserve) and the VI US Army Corps (reserve.)

The two detachments are the 5307th US Army Air Defense Detachment (USAR), commanded by Lt. J. A. Ens, of Oak Lawn, and the 5308th US Army Air defense detachment (USAR), commanded by Lt. J. T. Polihronis of Gary, Ind.

The 5307th Detachment will train at Battery B, 2d Missile Battalion, 60th Artillery Regiment, Orland Park, and the 5308th Detachment will train at Battery C, 1st Missile Battalion, 60th Artillery Regiment, Gary.

Brig. Gen. Peter Schmick, commanding general of the 45th Artillery Brigade (Air Defense), at Arlington Heights, announced that the two Nike sites will maintain normal operational readiness and effectiveness thruout the test.

The 5308th Detachment began formal training Tuesday, Feb. 24. The 5307th Detachment began formal training Thursday evening, Feb. 26.

In addition to their weekly drill periods, reservists will be eligible to accompany Nike batteries to Red Canyon, N.M., for annual service practice (ASP).

At ASP Army missilemen fire "live" Nike-Ajax missiles at drone-type aircraft. The success with which they "shoot" is scored and the results measure a unit's on-site training and over-all effectiveness.

Death Claims Loretta Ludwig

Last rites were held Tuesday afternoon in the Orland Park Methodist church for the late Mrs. Loretta Ludwig, nee Bump, who died in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island Saturday March 7 following a lingering illness.

She was born June 28, 1873 in Homer township and was united in marriage with Matt Ludwig May 29, 1902 in Goodings Grove. They moved to the village of Orland Park 45 years ago where she had lived since. Mr. Ludwig died in 1946.

200 Projects Featured at Science Fair

About 200 student-made projects will be on exhibit at the fourth annual Carl Sandburg High school science fair, which will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, March 20, in the boys' gymnasium.

The science projects are the result of students' individual work on one particular phase or area of science, and all research and construction of the project is done in the student's out-of-school time.

In order to show some of the wide variety of subjects being used by some of the Sandburg students for the projects, the following four were selected from the complete list of projects:

Judy Carroll and Charles Kallstrom have selected "Blood Chemistry."

James Gee has built from many inexpensive components, a 200-pound, 10,000 volt "Van de Graaf generator."

Robert Stellwagen, the winner of the Bausch and Lomb Science Medal has selected for his project, "Electrophoresis."

And finally two sophomore boys who collaborated on a first prize winning project in last year's state science fair, Donald Kirsch and LeRoy Neitzel are again working together on a new project dealing with "Hydroponics."

tracted by the huge hole that had been dug for a sewer on Monday, about a block north of their home. The hole was to have been filled Tuesday, according to a spokesman for the excavator, but it wasn't.

It was believed that the fascination exerted on many people by excavations drew the boys too near the edge and they plunged down the steep sides and into the water.

Two other youngsters who came upon the accident gave the alarm and ran to the victims' home to tell the mother. A construction worker pulled the boys from the water and a fire department inhalator crew attempted to revive them but without success.

The father, assistant manager of a Metropolitan Life office on the Chicago southside, drove up to the scene just as the bodies were being removed. He had a puppy in the car that was to have been a surprise gift to the two boys.

tially, according to information compiled by the board so that more classrooms are a must. The enrollment has been increasing at the rate of a room a year for the past nine years, the board reports.

The estimated cost of the proposed addition is $78,000. Other improvements figured, including an outdoor black-top play area, playground equipment, landscaping, sidewalks and additional roadway would cost approximately $6,000.

The estimated low cost of the proposed addition—$13 a square foot—is possible, it was explained, because the heating plant and sanitary facilities serving the present building would suffice for the new.

As soon as the board learns the total assessed valuation of the district and is able to determine interest rates on the bonds it will inform the property owners what effect the issue will have on their tax bills.

This information, the board said, will be published well in advance of the election.

Green Garden Votes on School Bonds March 21

Green Garden voters will go to the polls March 21, along with other voters of Peotone Community unit school district, 207-U, to ballot on a $680,000 bond issue and proposals to increase both the educational and building fund tax rates.

The bond issue is needed, the board pointed out, to construct three new grade schools one in Green Garden, one in Wilton township and one in the village of Peotone.

Consideration was given to a suggestion that one extra large building be placed at a central location to serve grade school pupils but because of the size of the district, some 90,000 acres, and the irregularities in its boundaries, the board decided that a centrally located school was impractical.

Officials also noted that a one school plan would deprive areas of community centers. Schools also serve to house civic and community affairs. The more use given school buildings, it was pointed out, the more return the people get for their tax dollars.

Green Garden now has a 3-room school to accommodate 100 pupils. Wilton has a hundred and there are 300 pupils in the grade school at Peotone.

To save architectural and construction costs the buildings proposed for Green Garden and Wilton would be identical—of modern, fire proof, one-story construction and each would contain four classrooms, a cafeteria, kitchen, sanitary facilities and an all-purpose room designed for use for physical education, indoor play in bad weather, plays and community meetings.

They would be erected adjacent to the present structures. Green Garden has five acres in its side so there is room for the proposed new plant.

The Peotone building, to be erected just east of the high school, would have 14 classrooms, a cafeteria, kitchen, toilets and multipurpose room.

The board plans to use the present Peotone building as a junior high school for pupils in grades seven and eight.

William C. Bettenhausen and Glenn Nagel, who represent Green Garden on the unit district board, said that a group is being organized in Green Garden to support the bond issue and get out the vote.

They explained that the reason why the board is asking for an increase in the educational and building fund tax rates is the district is confronted with a possible $2-million shrinkage in assessed valuation if the Will county multiplier is reduced to one. In the event its operating revenues are seriously cut, the board wants to be in a position to make up the difference.

It would raise the educational fund rate from its present limit of $1.25 per $100 of equalized assessed valuation to $1.65 and the building fund rate from 25 cents, where it is now, to 37½ cents per $100.

The board has stated that it will not make use of the increased rates unless it is a necessity.

Vote Down City Plan at Palos Hts.

There were 28 spoiled ballots.

Another election will be held April 11. This will be the fourth attempt since 1949 to establish a local government for Palos Heights. The area that will ballot is bounded on the south by 127th st. It has a population of about 4,000 including 2,000 voters.

N. Lenox Board Provides for More Lights

Improvement of the New Lenox street lighting system will cost the village an additional estimated $1,400 a year and when the new appropriation ordinance is adopted such a sum will be included, it was agreed by members of the New Lenox village board at its regular meeting last week.

The improved lighting system will include 18 mercury vapor lights along Lincoln highway from the east boundary to the west limits and 14 smaller lights in the residential area.

Trustee Stanley Gilmore, chairman of the lighting program, presented figures to the board from the Public Service Co. showing that the estimated additional net cost would be $1,391. The present cost of street lighting is approximately $1,500 a year, so the lighting item in the next appropriation ordinance would be listed at $3,000.

The mercury vapor lamps would be suspended over the street on brackets, attached to wooden poles. All maintenance on these lights would be borne by the Public Service Co., Gilmore said, whereas if the village purchased ornamental poles it would have to bear the maintenance cost as well as pay for the poles and transformers.

Trustee Keith Hossack said that such poles would cost about $500 each. Thus, it was pointed out, by taking advantage of the utility firm's offer the village would have good illumination on the Lincoln highway at great saving.

These lights would be staggered on both sides of the street.

Gilmore also pointed out that if the village installed its own system the cost of replacement when it became obsolete was another factor that must be considered. In the event another type light is found that provides better illumination the Public Service Co. would replace it if their system is utilized. If the village owned the system it would have to pay for the change.

The suggested location of the 14 additional lights in residential areas are: John and Elm; Cedar, north of Wood; Fir st., east of Cedar; Ash, east of Cedar; Gum, east of Cedar; Elm, east of Cedar; Oak, east of Cedar; Oak, west of Elm; Church street; Cedar at Joliet highway; Prairie st. at Joliet highway and Central road at Ogden.

These locations, Mr. Gilmore said, are tentative.

Cost of the entire system would run about $250 a month it was said.

Sandburg Students Can Earn Money For Geneva Jaunt

An employment bureau is being organized at Carl Sandburg high school to aid students in earning the price—or at least a portion of it—for the Geneva Jaunt that is to follow the annual Prom May 29.

The Jaunt will be a weekend trip, via bus and train, to Lake Geneva, and the price is $12 per student.

Calls for services of Sandburg students for odd jobs will be handled thru the school phone.

Students interested in earning money should communicate with Joseph Pierce, Garden 3-2593 or Marilyn McGee, Fieldbrook 9-6977. The rate of pay, according to those in charge, will be approximately $1 an hour.

Defer Action on Contract for O.P. Treatment Plant

A contract for construction of the Orland Park sewage treatment works, by the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Chicago, which was expected to be let today, has now been deferred until some time later this month, it was announced at the meeting of the Orland Park village board Monday.

Contingent upon letting the contracts, the board will permit Orland Hills developers to extend sewer and water lines in preparation of developing unit 3 of the subdivision. Approval by the village of such extensions must be had before final O. K. is obtained from the state and the Sanitary District.

The lowest of 11 bids was $299,033, submitted by Paschen Contractors, Inc.

Sandburg Wrestlers Finish 11th In Finals of State Tournament

An eleventh place finish in the state wrestling finals for Carl Sandburg high school was made possible thru the efforts of Al Jaklich and Ron Risner, taking a second and fourth place, respectively.

The tournament marked the end of Jaklich's high school wrestling career. His second place in the 165 pound division equalled his feat of last year when he wrestled in the 175 pound class.

For Ron Risner, the fourth place was a crowning award to his first season in wrestling competition. The 103-pound junior was beaten in the semi-finals by only one point at the hands of the eventual champion.

The 17 points gained by the performance of the Sandburg pair was six points more than last year in the State Final competition, boosting Coach Joe Devine's team from last year's 16th place ranking to 11th this year.

Only one Southwest Suburban conference team finished ahead of the Eagles, second place Oak Lawn, Bremen and Reavis finished behind Sandburg in the final point totals.

A final tally of wins and losses for Jaklich shows only three defeats and a draw against 27 victories. Risner piled up 25 wins against only four defeats.

Risner and Jaklich were both winners of first place awards in sectional competition to earn the right to the state finals.

PICKED AS TOURNAMENT FAVORITES—This is the Tinley Park Methodist basketball squad, champions of the Tinley Church League and now favored to cop the invitational tournament sponsored by

Play got underway last evening in the Tinley Park Church League invitational tournament at Central Grade School in Tinley Park between the Tinley Methodists and the New Lenox Lutherans and in the second game—Trinity Lutheran and Worth Methodist.

Tonight the Nazarenes meet Zion Lutheran in the 7 p.m. game and St. George will battle with the Markham Methodists at 8:30 p.m.

Tinley Methodists rate the favorites in this tournament on the strength of the season's record, 14-0. Last season a team from the Tinley Church League, Tinley Teens, beat the Methodists in the finals of this same tourney to win. This is a different Methodist team with more height and more speed.

The Methodists set four new records in the Tinley Park Church League this season. They scored the most points with 775. They came up with the first undefeated season. They had the best average per game with a high 64. A record of 88 points in one game is another league record which they set this current season.

Wes Landau, injured for a portion of the season, is fit and ready for action, which boosts the Methodist stock much higher. Landau is over 6'5", with plenty of weight to give him advantage in scoring and rebounding.

Worth, New Lenox, and Markham are both unknown quantities. Last season New Lenox survived only the quarter-finals of the tourney.

Trophies will be given to the first, second place team and one to the consolation winner — which is third place.

Between the consolation and finals on Saturday, the trophies for the regular season will be given out to the top two teams and the player of year award made.

The leading scorers in the Tinley Park Church League were released by Ken Webster. They are:

R. Gallina — St. George	192
W. Eggert — Zion Luth.	167
T. Jeffers — Methodist	156
W. Landau — Methodist	152
T. Propp — Zion Lutheran	151

Browsing Through The Cold Stove League

By DEAN DALLAS

The Tinley Park Church League basketball tournament gets underway on Wednesday evening in the Central grade school gym in Tinley Park. The Methodists will probably win the crown. Last year the Methodists have added some height and weight and appear to be a sure fire winner as they were for the regular season. They compiled a 12-0 mark in the regular season.

Thornton will not provide too much in the way of competition to a "good moving" team as they advance in the state basketball tournaments. Lentfer and Wilson do not move and the Wildcats will not get the shooting from Pettice and Jackson that they received in flying Bremen's sophomores.

There is a possibility that the super-sectional is beyond the reach of the Harvey team.

The All-Star team in the SW Suburban is chosen by the seven coaches and no other effort will be given out by this group. The rule was set up by the athletic directors to prevent debate by having a half dozen teams picked in many different ways.

We had plans for a team chosen by the players, but are going to cooperate with the athletic directors — to some of the schools who have sent in player selections—THANKS.

Lincoln-Way is setting up a wrestling tournament for the outlying grade schools. The Lincoln-Way varsity wrestlers will help in coaching the grade school boys toward this tournament.

It will be a full-fledged affair with trophies, etc.

Next week we will carry a report on the Lincoln-Way baseball and track teams.

The next week we will cover the Carl Sandburg track and baseball beginnings and then finish—before the season begins—with the Bremen squads.

These will be exclusive previews by yours truly — or yours forced!

Next basketball season the SWS will have eight teams instead of the seven. The new addition to the conference will be Homewood-Flossmoor. Reports indicate that this new school could well be a basketball powerhouse. Many of Bloom's former greats have come from this area.

"Maybe, next year," Bill Brown commented after Bremen took its beating from Thornton. The Braves might have a chance to get the Wildcats. If these young Tomahawks jell—those same sophomores — then juniors might gain revenge.

Larsen Plans Mat Meet for Grade Schools

Coach Ron Larsen announced that Lincoln-Way high school will hold an elementary school wrestling tournament at New Lenox April 4. Only the schools within the boundaries of the Lincoln-Way district will be eligible to compete.

Coaches Larsen and Flanigan are working with the various grade schools to prepare the boys for the forthcoming tournament at the high school. Lincoln-Way's varsity wrestlers will also be assigned to help in coaching the grade school teams.

The weight classes will be: 70, 79, 87, 95, 103, 112, 120, 129 and 135.

A traveling trophy will be given to the winning school. Any school winning the trophy three years in succession will gain permanent possession. Individual awards will be given to the winners of first, second, third and fourth places.

St. Michaels in Lemont Tourney

St. Michael journeyed to the Lemont township high school last night to compete in the Lemont Jaycee invitational basketball tournament. The St. Michael team was paired with the St. Alphonsus school of Lemont.

Quarter final games will be played today, semi-finals tomorrow and the finals Saturday.

Handsome trophies will be awarded to the tournament champion and runner-up as well as to first and second place winners in the consolation bracket.

As a special sidelight, two trophies will be awarded to the schools with the best cheerleaders. The cheerleaders will be judged on their enthusiasm, coordination and attire.

Bob Rodger On SW Suburban All-Star Five

Bob Rodger of Bremen was chosen to the 1959 SW Suburban All-Star team by the coaches. Rodger is a resident of Tinley Park.

Rodger, the 6' 3½" senior forward, sported a 14.8 per game point average with a total of 178 points in league play. His specialty shot was a south paw hook.

He had his good nights with over 20 points, but real importance showed in his ability to adapt to the Braves new offense in mid season. For it was after this change—putting Rodger in the position of play maker—that Jim Mifflin began to score more consistently.

Both Rich, conference champ and Oak Lawn, runner-up to the Rocket, placed two men on the stars squad.

Lynn Mautz and Phil Wagwere the Rich men to make it. Wagner is the only junior on the team. Phil also led the league in scoring with an 18.9 average per game.

Henry Devries and Art Borkowski were the Spartans entries.

Jim Mifflin and Jim Mannion of Bremen receive honorable mention.

Don Arnold and Jerry McBride, Sandburg scoring duo, were on the honorable mention list.

Palos Wins Grade Cage Tournament

Palos Park, District No. 118, won the Orland Park Grade School cage tourney for the second consecutive year by beating Orland Park in the finals last Friday evening, 24-17. This was the 5th annual basketball tournament.

Valley View finished third in the tournament by beating St. Michaels of Orland 29-26. Proceeds from the games will pay the cost of a special trip for the 8th grade in May.

New Lenox Gets Sweet Revenge On Rockdale Five

The New Lenox grade school lightweight basketball team won over Rockdale, Saturday night, 23 to 21, in the Des-Plaines Valley championship lightweight tournament, held at Frankfort. New Lenox has won 22 games and lost one this year.

The game they lost, was to Rockdale in the Chaney tournament, so Saturday night's game more than evened the score for them with Rockdale. Out of three games this year with Rockdale, they beat them 2-1.

Ron Gallina Player of Year

Ron Gallina of St. George was chosen as the player of the year in the Tinley Park Church basketball league here last week.

Gallina was the leading scorer in the church loop with a total of 192 points—a per game average of 17.5.

Ron received four of the possible five votes for this award.

He was a big reason for the second place finish of the Catholics with scoring but was just as valuable in the other departments. He has a pair of the surest hands in the circuit.

Gallina won the scoring title last year.

Plan Classes In Golf at L-W

Plan Classes 1-24 Sports
Miss Barbara Sprayberry, head of physical education department at Lincoln-Way high school, announced that golf will be a part of the spring program for the seniors of that school.

This will be the first venture by the physical education staff to bring the popular American sport to the school field. However, Miss Sprayberry finds one handicap that can only be overcome with the help from the families of Lincoln-Way. The handicap is equipment. Lincoln-Way does not have any golf equipment. Anyone with some old golfing equipment should call Miss Sprayberry at the high school in New Lenox (New Lenox 2051) at their convenience. The success of this venture will rest upon these grants of equipment from the Lincoln-Way parents.

Eighteen students were recently initiated into the G.A.A. in a formal candlelight ceremony. They were Mary Cloney, Elynn Simms, Karen Perry, Peggy Fierke, Sandy Beck, Nancy Simms, Jeanette Charlton, Lin Brown, Marge Lundin, Wallis Bevan, Pat Hall, Sue Watkins, Virginia Gran, Barbara Manzik, Marilyn Klenle, Donna Wainwright, Bonnie Hall and Martha Hunt.

Carol Fischer is chairman of the membership committee. Candidacy for membership is based on a point system, and a girl must go out for G.A.A. activity twelve times to earn a membership.

The G.A.A. bowling league also got under way a short time ago as eight teams were organized captained by the following: Barb Sneeder, Betty Andriasiak, Sylvia Snyder, Wallis Bevan, Barbara Brown, Shirley Thomas, Jean Siemsen and Virginia Gran.

Thirteen teams desired to participate, but an open competition was held in which the best ones were chosen to play on the eight available alleys. Joanne Buchhaas is bowling activity captain. The bowling schedule will end at the beginning of April.

April-May activity will include a trip to George Williams Camp in Lake Geneva, Wis., for the G.A.A. president-elect and a member of the executive committee.

Officers of the association at Bremen are Marilyn Johnson, president; Betty Andriasiak, vice-president; Barbara Sneeder, secretary; and Jean Siemsen, treasurer.

Bremen faculty personnel of the group, which is affiliated with the Illinois Girl's Athletic Association organization, are Mrs. Evelyn Aitken, sponsor, and Miss Judith Koerner and Mrs. Linda Finley, assistant sponsors.

Last Lawsuit of Abraham Lincoln

JOHN W. ALLEN
(So. Ill. University)
"Prowling" is an enjoyable pastime. A recent visit to the Alton Residence Center of Southern Illinois University gave opportunity to indulge in that pleasure. The minutes of the faculty meetings of Shurtleff college of more than a hundred years ago were made accessible. They even relate to Abraham Lincoln's last law case.

Most of the minutes tell of faculty action concerning the conduct of students. It quickly becomes apparent that boys were boys, even then. Some of them the records declare, drank, swore, played cards and attended dances. One youth was charged with being rude and another "prevaricated." A few insisted upon belonging to both of the two college literary societies "as authorized by the constitution and bylaws." They were dismissed from school.

Some of the century old entries proved of more than passing interest. It was from the faculty's action concerning one student, William Baker Gilbert, that there arose the last lawsuit in which Abraham Lincoln appeared as counsel.

The Flowing Bowl
Gilbert was the son of a prosperous Missouri farmer (4000 acres) who lived just across the Mississippi from Kaskaskia. Gilbert's grandfather was David J. Baker, prominent Alton attorney and former senator from Illinois. Young Gilbert a student at Shurtleff in June 1856, met with seven other students in the room of his friend S. S. Boone to duly observe the ending of the semester. He served as one of the committee sent out to procure "wine and brandy." The occasion was observed with considerable hilarity.

Their activities did not pass unnoticed. The faculty met on June 13 to investigate. The evidence apparently was conclusive and all were adjudged guilty. "No one mentioned any circumstances that might tend to palliate his offense." The records of this meeting made by Mr. Oscar Howes, secretary of the faculty and teacher of Classical Languages and Literature, also records that some "had drank lager beer" at other times.

All were placed on probation until the end of the first term of the coming year. They also were to be "publicly admonished on Tuesday morning in the chapel." Further developments induced the faculty to meet and modify the penalties of Gilbert and one other student. Because of "the degree of penitence manifested by Mr. Gilbert and apparent determination to conduct himself properly in the future," his period of probation was reduced to one month. The other student, because of his "downright falsehood" was suspended for one year and required to leave the college immediately.

Read Lowers the Boom
With these items on his record Gilbert was on his way back to Shurtleff after the Christmas vacation in 1856. He stopped in St. Louis over the new year to visit a classmate and a fellow probationer named Boone. Together they visited an art exhibition and a reception given by Mr. Chouteau. At the reception a Negro butler, using a silver ladel, dispensed punch from a large silver bowl. Young Gilbert, who figuratively "didn't know the gun was loaded," drained his glass and smiled his appreciation, only to look up and see Mr. Read, the president of Shurtleff watching him.

Back at Shurtleff, things began to happen. At a series of faculty meetings held on Jan. 8 and 9, 1857, a thorough investigation was made concerning drinking by students. Each one accused was called before the faculty and given opportunity "to mention any circumstance that might tend to palliate his offense." The result of it all was that Gilbert, among others, was suspended from the college for one year. The next day a petition signed by a majority of the student body was presented to the faculty asking that Gilbert be allowed to remain in school. The faculty refused to relent and Gilbert accordingly left school but continued his studies in his grandfather's law office under arrangements with St. Paul's college at Palmyra, Mo.

William's father and grandfather were much dissatisfied with the treatment accorded the youth and began action against Shurtleff in the U. S. Circuit Court at Springfield, employing Abraham Lincoln as their attorney. John M. Palmer represented the college. Through various delays the case did not come to trial until June, 1860, after Lincoln had received the Republican nomination as candidate for the presidency.

No Speeches, Court Rules
According to an account given by Mr. Palmer many years later, the court proceedings were brief. The judge is reported to have said, "Mr. Lincoln, I'll argue this case for you. You have too much on your hands already. You haven't any case." The judge then explained the law and its application. "Well," said Lincoln with a smile, "don't you want to hear me make a speech?" The judge said "No." Palmer continued, "Thus the last case that Lincoln tried he—well, he didn't try it at all." Lest someone worry about the wayward young Gilbert, he continued at another college, received both the bachelor's and master's degrees and was graduated from Harvard Law School. Admitted to practice, he became a successful attorney.

Glass Coffee Pot Explodes Into $25,000 Law Suit

(CNS) Suit for $25,000 damages from the explosion of a glass coffee pot in her home was filed in Federal court Friday by Mrs. Dorothy M. Sandin, 56 years old, 12433 69th avenue, Palos Heights. Defendants is the Corning Glass Works, Inc., of Corning, N. Y.

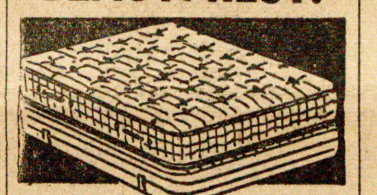

The suit charged that at 3 p.m. on Aug. 25, 1958, Mrs. Sandin, while exercising all precautions, was cut, bruised, scalded and suffered aggravation of a nervous condition from the explosion in the kitchen of her home. Attorney Edward H. Norton said the burns were over the lower half of the body.

She is the wife of Carl Sandin, a foreman at the Ford Motor company plant at 130th and Torrence avenue.

An article in Hospitals, the Journal of the American Hospital Association, says the hospitals can solve some of their personnel shortages by employing the handicapped and the elderly. A study made at the Albert Einstein Medical Center shows that the work records and achievements of the disabled often surpass those of normal personnel.

Township Officials May Collect Delinquent Personal Property Tax

(CNS) State's Attorney Adamowski is offering all townships a program that narrows costs to the bone and gives local officials greater control over collection of delinquent personal property taxes in their areas. It's aimed at bringing more money into the treasuries of local taxing bodies.

The program is underway in Rich township, where officials requested it. Here's how it works.

Adamowski a p p o i n t s one official in this case Police Magistrate Avery E. Hein of Matteson, to collect the delinquent taxes on a salary basis. The salary is determined by township taxing bodies. Ordinarily magistrates and justices of the peace are paid on a fee system. Basically the statutory fee is $4 per case, said Elroy C. Sandquist, Jr., first assistant state's attorney in charge of the civil branch. If it goes to trial, the cost can go up to $9, he said.

Costs are deducted from the collections, leaving less to be shared by local taxing bodies.

Sandquist pointed out they have the biggest interest in seeing such taxes are collected. Of delinquent personal property taxes collected, the biggest share, 72 per cent, goes to school districts in the township. The township, villages, and other local governments in the township receive 17 per cent. Only 11 per cent goes to the county and the Metropolitan Sanitary District, Sandquist said.

In the case of Rich township, all costs of collection including an office, will be shared by taxing bodies on the same percentages. The state's attorney's office will forward about 6,000 delinquent personal property bills to Hein. He already has received 4,500 for collection.

Fortune magazine forecasts a spectacular boom in capital spending during the next two years. According to it, even conservative estimates show that the total capital goods market by the second quarter of 1961 probably will amount to a record $53 billion a year—30 per cent above the current market.

Merchants Of Menace

Did you ever hear of "merchants of menace?" A pamphlet recently issued by the American Medical Association tells who they are. They're the lineal descendants of "the frontier medicine man whose potent snake oil and wolf milk elixirs were always 'smuggled out of the sacred tombs of ancient Egypt.'" Now, days, the pamphlet goes on, "The top hat and torchlights are gone—but the medicine man is still with us, and now he's beating the drums for his potions and remedies at your doorstep, on lecture platforms, and thru the mail. He's the sophisticated salesman who bleats warnings against 'that tired feeling,' 'subclinical deficiencies,' 'devitalized food,' and 'aging before your time!'"

This modern medicine man offers—at handsome prices—pills, capsules, powders and other preparations which, he swears, will compensate for deficiencies in your diet that are causing your ills. Usually his products are harmless in themselves, but they won't cure anything. So tragedy may befall an ill person who is duped into believing in the efficacy of the concoctions—and doesn't call a qualified physician until it's too late.

The AMA pamphlet points out that a well-balanced daily diet should include milk and dairy products, vegetables and fruits, meat, fowl, fish or eggs, and bread and cereals. If we use these standard foods in reasonable balance and quantity, there's no need for supplements unless, of course, your doctor recommends them and tells you what kind to get. Don't patronize the medicine men.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

We believe that it should be the concern of all civic-minded citizens to participate in village affairs and local government.

Therefore, a group of Parkside homeowners joined together in this interest, in order to discuss general problems and particular needs.

A spokesman was chosen to present the collective views and opinions to both the press and village officials, and by unanimous acceptance, John J. Murphy, president of Parkside Homeowners' association, was chosen to be that spokesman.

We wish to publicly state at this time, that at our behest, Mr. Murphy has reflected OUR views and opinions regarding the pending sanitary sewer project.

Very truly yours,

AUDIE CALVERT

JOANN B. NELSON

Defends Home Owner Groups
March 2, 1959

Dear Sir:

At the fiasco of the village board meeting of Tinley Park on Monday night, Feb. 23, it was deemed necessary by the moderator to turn the village hall into a courtroom with the home owners associations on trial. Why Mr. Murphy, president of the Parkside Homeowners Association, had to be subjected to a lot of impertinent questions is beyond my comprehension. Only one of the questions was in order and that was to the legality of the name "Parkside Home Owners Association". This former association was formed for the specific purpose to install streets in the sub-division. When this objective was attained, the association became defunct. According to law, in the case of "not for profit" corporations, a yearly report on the corporations activities together with the necessary fees, must be submitted to the secretary of state in order to keep the charter valid.

The name of an association does not mean a thing in itself, but it is the purpose and the fulfillment of its convictions that count. The formation of Home Owners associations stem from various basic reasons, but in the final analysis, it boils down to one fundamental reason and that is for the improvement and protection of the most important investment of the individual—his home and property.

I would like to state at this time that I am not a member of the Parkside Home Owners association due entirely to the fact that I do not reside in that area. I consider myself fortunate, however, to be a member of the North End Improvement association and feel it is to the advantage of any citizen to join the association in his area because they do have, without any doubt, the interest of the home owner at heart.

Before we actually formulated the North End Improvement association we obtained the general feeling of all the families in our area and also contacted others outside our area, including businessmen. It was unanimously opinioned that our formation as such was good for the community and village. We did not formulate as a clique or pressure group as some may want people to believe. We did form for a purpose which is actually three-fold:

1. Progress thru proper planning.
2. Better government.
3. A better understanding of our neighbors.

Referring back to one of the ridiculous questions brought forth at the village board meeting and that is "Where does the Parkside Home Owners Association hold their meetings?" The answer being in the basement of the home of John Murphy. What logical reasoning is there behind such a ridiculous question? Where a group meets, whether it be in a basement, attic, drug store, back yard, etc., does not mean a tinker's curse. It is the purpose of the meeting that counts. These are not cell meetings even though some people are trying to construe them as such.

At the inception of the North End Improvement association we had the honor of meeting at one another's homes, and believe me it was a pleasure to receive such invitations. We now have a membership representing 65% of our area and we are striving to make that 100%. No one man dictates the feelings of our association, it is our members who make the final decision on which way we tend to go. Belonging to a Home Owners association can afford no better way for any one individual to voice his opinions, be heard, and have definite attention paid to his opinions. Our main intent has been to formulate as a permanent organization with many social events, etc., planned for the future. It never was our intent to formulate as a temporary measure to accomplish anything on a selfish plan and then go defunct as some other associations have. Because we want a better community with proper planning, good government, and a better understanding of our neighbors should we as the North End Improvement association be classified ignominiously as a rebel rousing pressure group. I don't think so, do you?

Being wealthy, so they say, has its problems and responsibilities but it also has its compensations. If one has money there is no need to stick around in these parts during the month of March.

March in Arizona, Florida, California or the Riviera is quite decent, according to reports.

You can phrase your own descriptions of March. This being a family newspaper we are under a handicap.

You know everyone is in such a hurry these days. A few weeks ago people were talking about the moon and wondering what the other side looked like.

"Let's get a missile to the moon," was the cry.

So what do we do? We bypass the moon. No time to stop there now. Let's orbit the sun. Apparently the moon will become a stop on local runs and people will be able to go there and find out for themselves if it is really made of green cheese.

This rush, rush, speed and more speed is being reflected in our daily lives. We drive faster, eat faster and in general we live faster. We race our motors a lot too.

The pace we travel even shows up in our spelling and sentences. We start out with a word and rush on to the next without completing the first one.

This adds to the perils of editing. The other day, for instance we received an account concerning a wedding that could have added to the aspirin bill. A description of the bride's gown had it "scalped" instead of "scalped" at a point where it could have been embarrassing if scalped was really intended.

Then there was a letter from a man who complained that he had offered a solution to a municipal problem only to have it "pooh" by the official with whom he had been talking.

You don't find as many people pooh-poohing things as they did some years ago but with this short form it might become popular again.

This is the time of year when public officials in charge of street repairs and drainage problems would give a pretty penny to go on safari in Africa or spend a few weeks in the Gobi desert because this is the time of year when pavements spawn holes, ditches fill with water that overflows onto roads and lawns and trickles into basements.

Naturally householders become irked and these squawks you hear are not from ducks and geese heading north but the echoes of complaints by the public.

From Congressman Noah Mason comes a notation that 2,000 bills were introduced in congress on the first day of the session. This would appear to prove that everytime someone says "there ought to be a law", one is drafted.

Mr. Mason says he is responsible for 10 of these bills but there is little likelihood they will ever become laws, as three were designed to spread the tax load more equitably; three were to reduce taxes; three would cut federal expenditures and one was a resolution to prevent the federal government from giving or lending American property or equipment to foreign governments.

If enacted into laws these bills would cut government expenditures at least $10-billion a year, Mr. Mason says, and reduce federal taxes a like amount.

Which is exactly why they won't pass.

If congress begins economizing, how in the world can we support the 2,556,592 people now on the civilian payroll.

Your Doctor Reports

Your Doctor Inside stdg hd FIRST AID

"First Aid is the phrase used to describe the initial treatment of an injury or medical emergency. Under most circumstances a doctor is not immediately available and the assistance must come from those who are at hand.

The rules of first aid are few and simple. Many times people become confused or panicky in the face of an emergency and hesitate to act for fear of doing harm. Actually such concern is usually not necessary. The principles of care remain pretty much the same regardless of the emergency.

Burns: A burn is usually a frightening accident and quite painful. However, regardless of the severity or extent of the burn, the initial treatment is the same. The skin should be covered by clean bandages or cloth. If the burn occurs indoors it is permissible to cover the area with vaseline, butter or some lubricant before bandaging. When the burn occurs out-of-doors, there is usually dirt involved and ointments will trap dirt and make it more difficult to clean thoroughly later on. Except for minor burns it is advisable for the patient to consult his physician.

Bleeding: Even small cuts will bleed briskly if they penetrate the full thickness of skin. Yet it is almost always possible to stop the bleeding, at least temporarily. It is not necessary to remember special pressure points or any complicated rules. Direct pressure should be applied to the cut for at least three minutes, pressing as firmly as one can. Even the bleeding from very severe injuries can be controlled in this way. Tourniquets are rarely necessary and frequently do more harm than good. Unless applied properly, a tourniquet can actually increase the rate of blood loss.

Bone injuries: When a broken bone is suspected, the important first step is to arrange matters so that there will be no movement of the injured part. This will prevent further damage as well as minimize the pain. Once this is done there is no reason that a patient cannot be moved. The only possible exception is when a back or spine injury is suspected. In such a situation moving the individual is advisable only if there is enough help to lay him on a stretcher on his stomach while keeping his back rigid during the move.

Heart attacks and strokes: These are medical catastrophes that can occur without warning. Hardly ever can a doctor accomplish very much at the home in these critical emergencies. Very often, valuable time is lost trying to contact a physician and awaiting his arrival. When an obviously serious situation has developed suddenly and the doctor is not immediately available, it is far better to call an ambulance and get the patient to the hospital. The only thing that can be done, if the patient is unconscious, is to help his breathing by tilting the chin up or pulling the tongue forward.

Minor cuts: Considerable reliance is often placed on commercial antiseptics. If a medicine is strong enough to kill germs with one or two applications, it is strong enough to injure healthy tissue and thus aggravate the injury. If the antiseptic is not that potent, then it cannot be relied on to kill the germs. The best treatment for any cut is gentle washing with mild soap and water for several minutes. If this is done, an antiseptic is not needed. If this is not done, antiseptics will not often prevent infection.

Countryside News and Views

BY W. F. WHITESIDE

Congratulations to the Orland Park Chamber of Commerce on their first year of operation. At their first annual meeting, they recognized an outstanding citizen of Orland Township, Carl M. Boromet, a long time resident of Orland Township and an active leader in agricultural affairs, was the man honored. It was a pleasure to have a small part in this testimonial dinner. It seemed very appropriate that the Chamber of Commerce selected someone with such an outstanding record of service and leadership in this community.

Carl's son, Carl A. Boromet, was high man in the singles division in the Cook County bowling tournament and in the district bowling tournament held at Streator. He, along with other outstanding bowlers, will compete in the state competition at Decatur.

Don't get over excited about dwarf corn just yet. Sure, try a little, say five or ten pounds, but don't go hog wild. You can probably get a small amount from your local seed corn company to try in 1959. Dwarf yields in 1958 were generally lower than yields from adjacent tall corn. Better varieties could brighten this yield picture in the future. Dwarf corn already beats any of the tall corn in standing. Keep your eye on this fellow. He may grow up a little, lose some of his bad habits and become the big boy in our corn production!

Experimental results indicate that liquid protein supplements will not put faster or cheaper gains on beef cattle than soybean meal. The tests compared soybean meal with a liquid supplement containing molasses, urea, and phosphoric acid.

On the average, three pounds of silage will replace one pound of hay. If corn silage is substituted for hay, more protein will have to be fed in the grain mixture, because corn silage is low in protein.

When buying legumes or grass seeds this spring, read the seed tag. Look for information on germination, purity, and weed seed content. You might even take time to figure the live pure seed you are getting for your money. Here's how to do it:

Simply multiply the germination by purity. The price per pound divided by this figure will give you the price you are paying for pure live seed that will grow. Compare a few differently priced seed lots. You may be surprised to find how much you are paying for some of the so-called bargain seeds. It's not the price you pay per pound or bushel that counts—it's the price you pay for seed that will grow that is important.

Almost everyone will agree that machine guards occasionally get in your way and slow you down. Artificial arms and legs, of course, will do the same thing. Isn't it easier to live with a machine guard for a few days than with an artificial limb for the rest of your life?

We seem to go in cycles, like seven-year locusts, on the question of how thick to plant corn. Actually a weather cycle does seem to be involved. The last few corn growing seasons have been on the wet side, and consequently a lot of corn will go in the ground at pretty high planting rates this season. This kind of interest tapers off after ordinary seasons and sometimes stops abruptly after such years as 1954.

National 4-H Club Week, Feb. 28 thru March 7th, was observed in various ways in South Cook County.

The Park Forest 4-H Advisory Council, under the chairmanship of Ty Thompson, held a get-together for 4-H alumni in the village of Park Forest. This was an excellent opportunity for former 4-H'ers to get together and talk over old times.

The South Cook 4-H rally follows close on the heels of 4-H Club Week. The rally, designed to kick-off the 4-H year was held March 10th at the Carl Sandburg high school at 7:30 p.m. The program included recreation for everyone as well as a report from our returned IFYE, Miss Marilyn Nickel of Elgin. Marilyn showed slides of her life in Austria thru the International Youth Exchange program. She lived there with a farm family.

Farmers often wonder about the success secrets of their neighbors' hog business. If you are one of these farmers, plan to attend DeKalb for Swine Growers' Day on Friday, March 13th. One of the most often discussed topics among hog producers, "Complete rations for growing and finishing hogs" will be one of the interesting topics on the program. There will be many others. Registration is at 9:30 a. m. and the program starts at 10:00 a.m. at the Northern Illinois University auditorium.

Studies show that, within a breed, large cows are better producers than small ones. On the average, there is an increase of 400 to 900 pounds of milk yearly for every 100 pounds of increase in body weight.

Prune trees and shrubs now, spring is not far off. Before it gets here, trees and fall blooming shrubs should be pruned. Thin out about one-fourth of the oldest branches of the shrubs and cut back the remaining branches to a good size shoot or bud. Remove the least desirable of any crossing branches on the trees. Avoid narrow V-crotches on trees. When one begins to develop, cut off one of the branches.

Remove sucker growth on the inner portions of the large branches.

When removing large branches, cut upward (under cut) the branch 6 inches from the trunk. Then cut downward 3 inches nearer the trunk. When the branch falls it will not split the trunk. Remove the remaining stub by cutting as close to the tree as possible. Tree wounds always heal faster than a round one. Paint any large wounds with asphalt base tree paint.

An excellent bulletin on pruning trees and shrubs is available free of charge from the Cook County extension office, South Street & 66th Court, Tinley Park.

Don't get overexcited about dwarf corn just yet. Sure, try a little, say five or ten pounds, but don't go hog wild. You can probably get a small amount from your local seed corn company to try in 1959. Dwarf yields in 1958 were generally lower than yields from adjacent tall corn. Ice, snow and frozen condensed moisture can cause motors to burn out in severe cold weather. Check to be sure that motors on washing machines, pump jacks and milking machines come up to speed promptly when they are turned on. A motor may sound as if it is running when it is completely stalled and will burn out within a minute or so.

Automatic electrically heated drinking water equipment uses a smaller amount of current when a large number of animals per unit drink from it. Fresh water comes in as the animals drink, and thus little electricity is used to prevent freezing.

How about your seed oats for 1959? If you are counting on using what's in the bin, are you sure they will grow? Remember how wet it was last summer at harvest? Many growers are reporting that their oats will not germinate. Play it safe—have your seed tested. The State Seed Laboratory at Springfield offers such a service. In a drill box survey in Illinois last year, several farmers were found seeding oats that germinated less than 50%. Others were seeding over 50,000 weed seed per acre along with their oats. Be sure the seed you sow is top quality. Your best insurance will be to buy certified seed.

Clinton, Minhafer and Newton were the outstanding oat varieties in the Illinois spring oat variety demonstrations conducted on 68 farms in 1958. If you haven't already tried one of these varieties, why not do so in 1959? University of Illinois Circular 788 gives detailed characteristics of these and many other oat varieties.

How about your pre-emergence weed chemicals for 1959? Several growers were disappointed with their effectiveness in 1958. Here's one way of looking at this problem: We all know that weeds are robbers—we can designate pre-emergence chemicals as cops. When soil moisture is adequate at planting time, it brings out the robbers, but the cops are wide awake and working. In a dry planting season, the robbers aren't so bad that general cultivation can't control them. Then the cops aren't needed. In short, an investment in a pre-emergence chemical gives protection when and where protection is needed most!

Everyone is interested in programs or activities that get results. We are also interested in results. Ten years of keeping records in 406 Illinois dairy herds have achieved the following results: Milk production increased 1,770 pounds per cow per year, and butter fat production increased 71 pounds per cow per year. Income over feed costs was raised $1500.00 per herd per year. What do individual herd owners use their records for? Here are a few answers: Feed each cow efficiently, reduce cost of producing milk, locate high and low producers, and selection of suitable animals for herd replacement.

According to the Department of Commerce, the average size of families, statistically, is 3.65 persons. Rural farm families were the largest, with an average of 4.08. The total number of families as of last March was 43,700,000.
